

Accordion Maestros at the "Petit Robinson"

Directed by Claude DRUHOT

A show of 52'

French version

English version on demand

High Definition
Digital Betacam 16/9

©2009

Once scorned as the relic of a bygone era, in recent years the accordion has been enjoying an impressive revival.

At the dawn of a new century, a new generation of musicians have started to innovate.

This « tour » introduces us to the pioneers who defined the classic image of the accordion.

Then we seek out the young musicians taking the instrument to new horizons, in rock, jazz, classical music or turn of the century pop.

This emission brings together well established players including André VERCHUREN and Marcel PRUVOST, and contemporary young talents, on the stage of the most famous of the Marne river "guingettes": The petit Robinson.

These unique images are accompanied by the sounds of the great accordion classics, performed especially for us.